"Michael is exactly the kind of agency owner we want on our team," said Chris Walters, CEO of Inszone Insurance Services. "He has built a specialized property and casualty book with real depth in transportation and telecommunications infrastructure, and he has done it through disciplined, sustained growth over the past decade. That is a rare combination of specialization and ambition. We are excited to give Michael and his team the platform to keep building, and to support their clients across Pennsylvania with even greater capability."
